KEYMACRO is a smart keyboard macro program. With KEYMACRO, you can design very useful macros for Microsoft Windows-based applications. There are two windows: The left window is the macro editing window. In it, you can edit all macro properties. The right window is the list of commands. When you click a command in the list, the corresponding editing window opens. In the editing window, you can check the executed command, set the interval between two commands, change the command's path, and so on. In addition to the powerful macro editing function, KEYMACRO also has a few useful features: * 2D (2-dimension) list: With 2D list, you can edit all the properties of the macro you want. And you can set different properties on different commands in one macro. * Key remapping: You can assign any key combination for the macro you are editing. This feature is helpful for some programs. For example, you can activate the "Organize" command of Microsoft Word by pressing the F5 key. * Easy edit: You can edit and change any property of any command in a macro easily. * 2D context menu: When you right click a command in a macro, a new context menu appears. And the commands in the context menu are the same as the commands in the list. You can customize the commands in the context menu. * Mouse right click: You can also get the same functions by right clicking the mouse. * Indent and outdent: With indent and outdent, you can adjust the visual layout of the commands in the right window. * Keystroke and Timing: You can set any keystroke or timing for the macro. The keystrokes are counted from the moment you start to type to the moment you finish the keystroke. * Score: You can get a summary of the score and accuracy percentage for each question.
